

Dancers mob Centro shops

THIS week is all about children, parents and local communities joining together in celebration of education.

Education Week showcases the wonderful programs and initiatives happening in schools across the state and it kicked off on Monday at Centro Toormina with a huge, enthusiastic flash mob of dancers from across the region.

More than 160 students from six schools entertained shoppers with a display of dance moves.

The dancers were part of a NSW statewide simultaneous launch performed by thousands of public school students.

Director-General of Education and Communities, Dr Michele Bruniges is encouraging people to visit public schools during Education Week to see first-hand the achievements of students and teachers and to support local community events celebrating and showcasing education week activity.

Funding grant for festival

COFFS Harbour City Council will increase its efforts to help even more local householders learn how to cut their power bills with $10,000 from the NSW Government's Save Power program.

Local MP Andrew Fraser said the funding will be used towards the costs of organising the 2012 Our Living Coast Sustainable Living Festival.

"Saving power is a win for everyone; households save money while helping to reduce the overall demand for electricity and our impact on our environment."

The grant will be used to inform and encourage households about some of the many simple steps they can take to save money on power bills.

"The Save Power program helps householders to find out how they can stay warm while still enjoying modern conveniences and comfort and stop wasting money," Mr Fraser said.
